

Quadralite Collapsible Reflector with Grip Silver-White 110cm

The reflector is one of the simplest and most useful light modifiers. It can be used both inside and outside the photo studio, in addition to outdoors. It is useful not only for photographers but also for filmmakers, regardless of whether they are professionals or amateurs.

Quadralite silver-white reflector is an excellent tool for modeling light in all conditions, enclosed in a small case. It has two light-modifying surfaces, thanks to which it can be quickly and easily adapted to the needs of the user.

Thanks to the use of two handles, the reflector allows for a comfortable grip, even in adverse conditions, i.e. during demanding outdoor sessions. The handles are moulded for ergonomic grip, making them very comfortable and non-intrusive. The handles also allow you to mount the reflector quickly and easily, not only to stands and tripods, but also to everyday objects that allow you to attach the reflector to.

The reflector comes with two different surfaces:

- white (satin) - allows for a very diffused and soft light, ideally suited to fill shadows; it's neutral in color and can be used as a background as well
- silver (mirror) - does not scatter the light like a white screen does, and allows for contrasting lighting; it does not change the color temperature of the light and can be used as both a source light as well as for effect
